Conduct a Review of Your Program

Prior to completing and submitting the Q Comp Annual Report, each district must complete a program review. Districts may choose to either use the best practice model provided by MDE or create their own program review process using the standards outlined in this section.

Best practice model

The best practice model is based on the program review process previously conducted by MDE. It consists of a document review looking information related to four the five program components and a site review (for districts with more than one site multiple site reviews are completed) including observations of learning team meetings, interviews with teachers and teacher leaders.

When using the best practice model, districts should identify a review team that will look at documentation and conduct site reviews. A program coordinator or other leader should complete the four document review templates and collect any other related documentation. This information would then be submitted to the review team for analysis using the Document Review Form. Next the review team would identify sites (if there are multiple in the district) for review and schedule learning team meeting observations and interviews using the questions provided. The review team will use the information collected from the observation of the learning team and the interviews to rate the site on the program rubric and complete the Site Review Report form and the District Site Review Summary form, if necessary.

The forms and other resources for the best practice model are available in SharePoint for those who wish to use it.

Design your own

Districts may design their own review process using as little or as much of the best practice model as desired. It is recommended that any program review include looking at documentation, observing implementation and gathering feedback from a wide variety of stakeholders.

Any review of the Q Comp program should be comprehensive to the scope of the program and provide a detailed picture of what is and is not working within the program to improve instruction and student achievement. It should examine the level of implementation fidelity in all aspects of the program and identify improvements needed to create the desired impact on classroom instruction and student achievement.
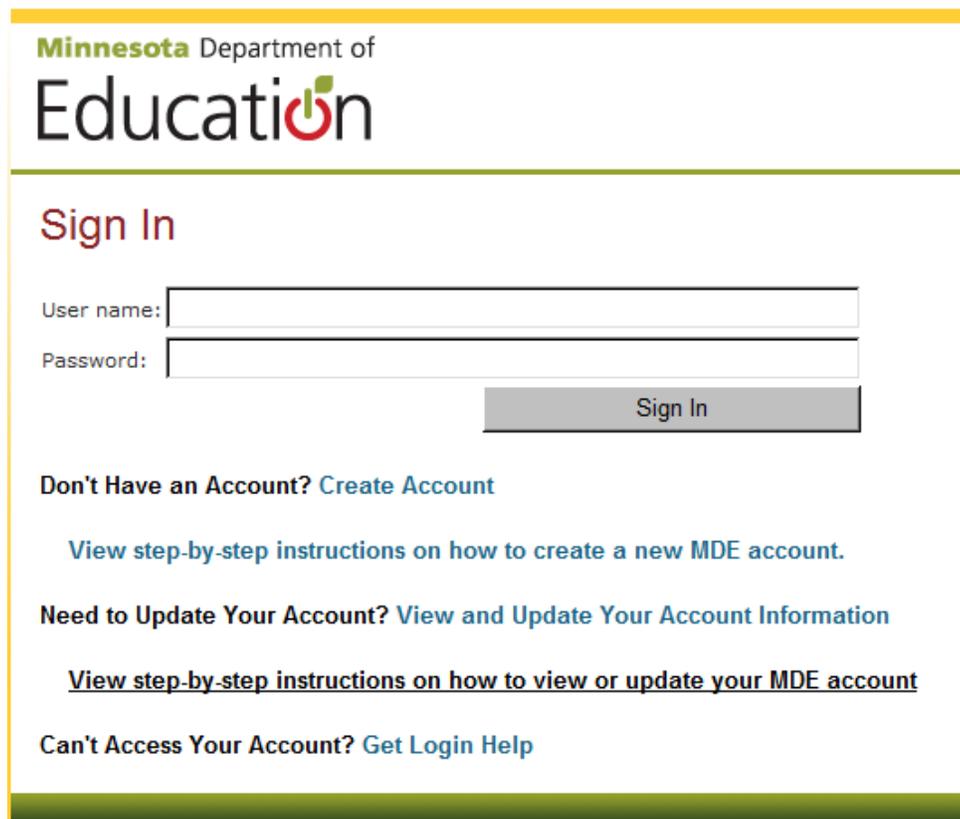

The forms and other resources provided for the best practice model may be used or revised by districts if desired or districts can develop their own tools, keeping in mind the information that is needed to address the items in the Q Comp Annual Report.

Accessing the Annual Report Form

To complete the report log in to SharePoint using the instructions outlined previously and download a Word version copy of the report form to your desktop using the district name as the first part of the file title. Complete this form using the guide below and then upload the final version into SharePoint using the directions in the next section.
